the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 2000). The prevalence of mental health problems is also increasing in children and young people (Mental Health Foundation 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The World Health Organization (WHO) has identified mental health as a global public health priority (WHO 1993). The WHO has also identified the need for a global strategy for mental health care (WHO 1993). 1: The limbs of a tree bare of its leaves are a silent reminder that fall is here and summer is behind us. 2: Dan Rust competes for top Cross Country honors. 3: Nancy Yankauskas helps spark spirit. 4: A quiet walk in the woods provides time to reflect. 5: Football is a big part of the season at Lowell.

Sitting in the commons, talking to friends, and Lowell High will be pulled back into the routine of the school year, reluctantly leaving the summer behind. But never fear, for soon all 1050 students of the start of involvement . . .

Changes have come... Mr. Elbert is gone & replaced by Mr. Druckemiller & asst. Mr. Schuster. Mini-courses have taken over the history department, inspired by the success of last year's English minis. All this added to the first 2 days of "classes"- total insanity for everyone as upperclassmen attempted to schedule themselves into English and history courses of their choice (which somehow didn't always work out that way)

*...another
begins*

FOOTBALL—oh, well . . .

Varsity football is something that every J.V. and Freshman football player looks forward to, two practices each day included. But a varsity football player does not look forward to a 2-8 season, and our team is no exception. It took a love of football and something called "moxie" to pull them through.

The season started out on the right foot in the Merrillville Football-O-Rama as Lowell proved to be the only team able to score, but then came two defeats as the Devils began to feel the scorch of a long season. One can see the value of a place-kicker in the Calumet game which Lowell won by a fieldgoal. Five losses followed the victory. However, Lowell finished on the right foot as North Newton was trounced, 35-7. Maybe next year we can forget about the left foot in the middle.

1: Dan Langer tries to avoid a Trojan tackle
2: Open field beckons. 3: Terry Brownell prepares to pass to a Devil receiver. 4: Supersoph
Tom Renn heads for the endzone.

5: Coach Wormhoff explains his philosophy. 6:
Despite a great run by Dan Langer, Devils lost to Highland 32-6.

1: Lowell stops Trojan punter, gain for Steve Sark. 3: Another catch by Tom Little. 4: Coach O'Shea gets explicit with instructions. 5: Only open field awaits super-soph Tom Rem.

The 1973 Red Devil JV and Freshman Football teams had great seasons except for one small thing. They did not play River Forest in all six games. Both teams had 1-4-1 records, and the one win in each case came against River Forest. However, both teams did have apparent strong points. The Junior Varsity did show some flashes of strong spirit, always fighting back until finally putting things together in the last game against River Forest. The Freshmen also showed a promising defensive squad, allowing only an average of twelve points per game. If these boys can punch up their offensive teams a little, they should provide a tough, spirited Varsity at some time in the future.

1. Art Guild member hope for a Devil victory. 2. Sophomore commons were highlighted by this Devil's head. 3. Teri Ogborn and Sandy Klaho prepare for Homecoming parade. 4. Vocational Auto Mechanics took first prize.

5: Juniors urge the Devils to "Keep on Trucking". 6: Lynn Conlis artistically decorates the Sears window prior to the Homecoming activities. 7: Irene "The Greek" Kostantakis rides the SAE float.

Spirit Week:

A concentrated effort to build support for the team so that they will win the biggest game of the season, and for one brief period, the entire school becomes unified toward a common goal.

The sophomores took spirit honors, sparked by their first place in Commons Decorations. They were given a close race by the juniors, who won the Window Decorating Contest.

Highlighting the Homecoming parade was the VICA float, first in the judging. The Junior Class won second; Art Guild, third; and SAE, Honorable mention. From the downtown area, the crowd followed the parade to the bonfire and Powder Puff Game, the beginning of the Homecoming activities. The pep session and the game itself marked the end of a spirited week.

UPPERCLASS ROUT, 26-0

The 1973 Powder Puff Classic was highlighted by the Jr/Sr team flying to its second consecutive win over the Soph/Frosh team. The final score was 26-0 as the finely tuned Jr/Sr machine rolled over the inexperienced underclassmen, scoring four times while holding the Soph/Frosh team to only four first downs.

At halftime, the sex symbols of each class were honored by their entry into the Homecoming Court. Tom Little ran away with the balloting for King, winning over Steve Sark, Benny Kyle, and Larry Workman.

1. Janet Hoffman and Benny Kyle lead the half time parade of Powder Puff King candidates. 2. Tom Little, Karen Kendler, Steve Sark and Becky Hassin discuss Tom's newly-won crown. 3. Jr/Sr defense prepares to halt another Frosh/Soph drive. 4. Powder Puff King and court on review 5. Amy Rules begins long run. 6. The Jr/Sr squad was cheered to victory by jubilant cheerleaders. 7. Dale Midkiff and Joan Coffman stroll to mid-field.

1: Janet Hoffman is named Homecoming Queen. 2: Claudia Wall, Nancy Huseman, Karen Hall, Janet Hoffman, Karen Kender, Gayle Nassau, and Chris Huseman comprised the 1973 court. 3: Newly crowned queen waves to admirers. 4: Benny Kyle and Janet have the spotlight. 5: The crowd gets it on. 6: Quorum provided entertainment at the Homecoming Dance.

Homecoming Dance

Spirits undampened by the Football loss, Lowell High Students transferred the Homecoming festivities to the gym. Queen Janet Hoffman and her escort Bennie Kyle took the floor alone for the first dance. Quorum provided the music and we provided the spirit to finish Homecoming week on a good note.

X-Country Fleet Feet

The 1973 version of Lowell High School's Roadrunners was a vehicle of speed and grace. Led by the spirit and dedication of the captains, seniors Dan Rust and Bill Busovsky, the team ran to surprising success, (and they were surprised, too.) Coach Larry Ouwenga was the guiding force for the team when they got, well, over-exuberant. Although the Roadrunners did not enjoy spectacular, record-breaking results, their season was a bit more prosperous than our other fall sports. Terry Little won the award for the Most Improved Runner at the end of the year and Dan Rust was voted Most Valuable Roadrunner.

Hot Dogs

Once again, the Lowell "Hot Dogs" enjoyed a winning season, topped off by their second consecutive Sectional title. The hours of practice and the coaching of Miss Sue Graham, assisted by Tom Lump, paid off. The girls posted the only undefeated season at Lowell High School this year, reflecting something more than just skill and team effort. Attitude, sportsmanship and determination are only a few of the characteristics backing these girls. When things got tense—as they did, at times—the Hot Dogs pulled together with spirit that remains unique and admirable. For future Hot Dogs and seasons yet to come, we have the inevitable wish—"Keep up the good work!"

Pillow Talk

Attracting sizeable audiences each night it was presented the All-school play "Pillow Talk" was an immense success. "Pillow Talk" was another unique challenge to the the-ater-in-the-round. In order to represent the separate apartments that the stars occupied without constant scene changes, lighting and stage trickery were employed. The story revolved around a single girl working in New York and her dashing male neighbor with whom she shares a telephone party line. The thing is, she doesn't know what he looks like. Janet Hoffman as Jan Morrow and John Isaacs as Brad Allen both turned in fine performances. Mr. James Eminhizer was the faculty director and Jo Ann Jerzyk was student director. The efforts of these and other able folks made "Pillow Talk" the hit of the fall play circuit.

Winter is . . .

Falling leaves have turned to snow and Football to Basketball. Football has been put on hold - up. Mr. Debbie Card Tom from the amazing Regional of the previous year's games and made his players and their disappointed BH sea on for the year end!

Winter started off as usual with the same people and places - along with an occasional blizzard or two, but nothing was quite like The Pop Session before sectionals! Named the best in 8 years, it was in the kids, teachers and on WLCL too!! Then a matter shock - a repeat trip 16th mod - 2 rallies in one day!

PS We never made it to regionals - but the spirit didn't die - it's here - we've still got it!!!

1. Junior Colleen Robinson has 1st Miss and 2nd Debbie (and became after being crowned) Jr. Miss. 1971. 2. Charlie Fisher, Jane Lindholm, and Maggie Jonsen award their trophies to one of many long practices.

4. '72 Jr. Miss, Judy Emmons, presents Debbie with her crown. 5. Kathy Kender is named 1st runner-up. 6. Debbie and Kathy relax at the reception. The entire Jr. Miss program was sponsored by the Lowell Jaycees.

Long hours of practice and work in preparation of the 1973 Junior Miss Pageant paid off as the night was a magnificent success. The standing room-only crowd looked on as Miss Debra Kay Gard recited her version of "Casey at the Bat," which played an integral part in her selection as Lowell Junior Miss.

Eleven other girls competed, and awards were presented to Kathy Kender, first runner-up; Karen Kender, Spirit of Jr. Miss; Jane Coffman, Scholastic Award, and Cathie Boyles, talent.

UNDERCLASSMEN RULE

A young, well-balance team caught the spirit of Lowell Wrestling Fans this year with wall-smashing Coach Hurst their leader. Underclassmen were the driving force behind the team as Steve Sark was the only senior. The Grapplers' big moment of the season was sophomore Tom Rein's sectional placings. Except for Coach Hurst's hand and John Rust's accident (notice how he's sitting) the team was fortunate to be injury-free. Coach Backe's JV team readied more stars for next year and Lowell's wrestlers art optimistic.

Junior Varsity wrestlers labored under more obscurity than perhaps any other team. Who could name their hairy coach or their famous free-fall bruising crusher? Coach Backe is the answer to the identity of their fuzzy-faced mentor. Mitch Kormendy and Jeff Harris displayed their remarkable talents to us at the Hanover meet during school. A JV wrestler's practices are filled with the same pain inflicted upon the Varsity. He suffers all the same rigors as they and if he lasts, the rewards can be the same. There were many successes for the JV's this season, illustrating their perseverance. Do not be surprised at the power and spirit of this team in the future. Thanks to an improved program and interest, wrestling has become one of Lowell's most exciting sports.

Records, but Few Wins

The need for more buoyant bodies plagued Coach Ron Coghill and Lowell High's swim team in 1974. The Ugliers repeatedly won more than half of the individual events, but because of a lack of seconds and thirds, they wound up on the short end of the score. Many new records were set in Coach Coghill's debut season by the swimmers. Lone senior Bill Bockstahler finished his career with a big splash and other valuable swimmers were Jack Ruley, Paul Fewkes and Tim Lucas. Improvement was made all year through by all the swimmers and, if he gets the extra people he needs, Coach Coghill predicts a bright future for Lowell swimming.

Swimming; Girls Style

Turning a sinking start around, the girls' swim team built a respectable record out of the season. The girls donned "Turtle Shirts" to show their team spirit and also to inform the school of that night's meet. Only five seniors participated this season, so the nucleus of the team's success will remain strong with the returning juniors and sophomores. Miss Graham directed the team despite being the basketball coach during the same period. Plaudits are in order for her and the Turtles.

SPIRIT REBOUNDS

Red Devil Roundballers groped and hustled for a respectable place in the Lake Suburban Conference but wound up in the cellar. The 5-13 record etched out by the team indicated an upswing from the 72-73 season, but it was a slow progression. No great series of losses piled up, but the wins were few and far between. Lowell's big scoring punch was provided by Juniors Greg Nance and Dave Miller. Valuable assets to the team were seniors Dan Rust, Tom Little, and Ben Kyle. Sectional time found both the fans and the team in very high spirits and the first game victory over West Central showed a basis for this confidence. However, a powerful Hebron team put down the Devils in their second effort. Next season Lowell comes back with Nance, Miller and also Dan Hall, Gary Nord, and Joel Zeigler.

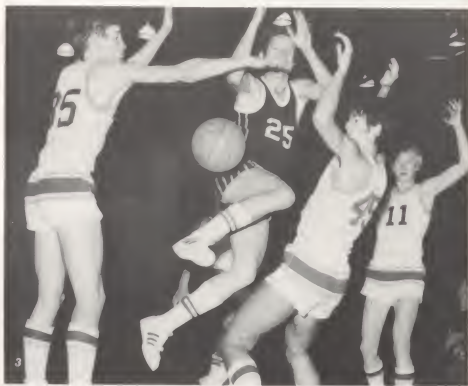

1. Lucky #13, Ben Kyle, shoots over Crown Town opponent. 2. Sophomore Joel Ziegler earned a Varsity berth by spirited JV play. 3. Coach Wicand asks reserves for help. 4. Red Devils reach for sky. 5. The game against Crown Point was one of the highlights of the season. 6. Terry Brownell shuffles pass to Dan Hall during River Forest game. 7. Greg Nace proved to be the driving force behind the Devil machine.

JV: Great Promise

The most successful male team on Lowell High courts this season were Coach Reyes' Junior Varsity players. Spurred by pre-season optimism and good balance, the Junior Varsity forged the best record for the Devils this season. As always, the team was well-coached and well-practiced and these elements always lead to success. JV players who participated in sectionals at the end of the season were Joel Ziegler, Steve Pribyl, and Rick Rust. All three players are Sophomores and the experience they gained will be valuable towards molding a successful team next year. The team lost several of their games by slight margins, but kept fighting back all season long. With that kind of spirit, Lowell should be on the long end of Varsity scores next season.

Rookie Coach Genth and his freshman team suffered through a disappointing season. The class of '77 found the going rough in their introduction to high school basketball. The players kept their spirit up throughout the season as both they and their coach adjusted to the new type of basketball. Coach Genth found coaching and the players held surprises all through the season, but was aided by Coach Reyes and Coach Weiland. It is wise to consider that these boys will return to the courts next year, for another crack at the opposition, so don't count them out. Next season will also hold more surprises for Coach Genth as he takes on the task of coaching more rhines.

The girls' "A" basketball team enjoyed another fine season but the "B" team had a tendency to "take it on the chin". The "B" team girls finished the year with a rather subpar 0-8 record but they apparently "softened up" the opposition for the "A" team which ended up the season with a 7-3 record. The girls finished in a blaze of glory in their final game against Wheeler, scoring a season's high sixty-three points and holding Wheeler to twenty points. Ace coach Sue Graham led the girls in this, her third year as commander of the girls' athletic endeavors and, with their star coach returning and several veterans of past successful seasons returning, the girls may have a shot at a possible sectional crown.

Gymnasts Excel

Familiar cries of "Oh, my aching body!" echoed through the gym once again as Lowell gymnasts dragged out equipment, stretched out muscles, bruised bodies and strove to win. New faces and familiar ones combined to compete through the winter months and produce an exciting, well attended season. Success was evident when Nancy Huseman placed second in sectional competition on the optional uneven bars and seventh at the regionals. Determination and practice is the name of this game and with the loss of only one senior, Kathy Kender, Lowell can top arch-rival Munster and bring home the sectional crown if they can "keep on truckin".

Council gets its Donkey in Gear

In order to raise money for the activity board, the Student Council sponsored a Donkey Basketball game. The teams were made up of teachers from various Tri-Creek schools and the Jay Cees. A second game was played between the boys and girls basketball teams. The Student Council had quite a time convincing Coach Weiland to let them use his basketball court. In the end Mr. Weiland gave in and the council made a total of just under $1,000.

50's Night—Too Smooth T'Move

In a burst of nostalgic ingenuity the LHS choir made the scene by sponsoring an extravaganza called 50's night. The chicks lowered hems and guys greased hair and the whole shee-bang was really "george". A jail and candle making were just a few of the varied delights available to the teeny-boppers. WLCL helped out by lending hep platter spinner Jerry Curtis to emcee the kissing, sundae-eating and dance contests, and the arrival of The Conrad Birdie (of Bye-Bye Birdie fame, of course). Add to these a genuine juke box and there was plenty of music to keep the joint hoppin'. The 50's night showed some of us kids in the 70's that the dudes back in the 50's really had it made in the shade.

Spring Is . . . Sunshine, prom and the End of School

1: Always part of the spring tradition—the Prom. 2: Flowers replace the snow as the weather gets warmer. 3: Outdoor sports such as track take over the scene.

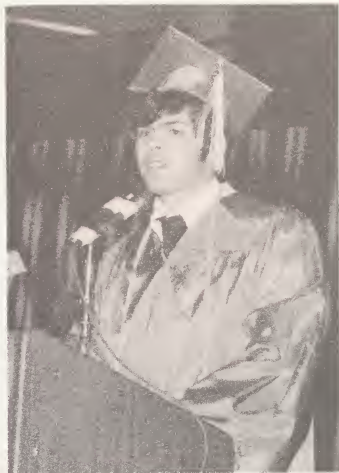

Spring: I almost forgot what warm, weather was like! at last - winter's done with and it's time for change. As the scenery changes from gray to green, (we're leaving the gym to spend free time outside) - staying perhaps a little longer than we should! Track shoes & baseball bats have overpowered basketball, & the winter flasks, newly unsped cars, 10-speeds & an obvious lack of those heavy winter clothes are everywhere! But soon the banquets, awards, Prom and parties will begin, followed by plans for next year and graduation - where did the time GO?

Despite foul weather and a one-hour power failure on opening night, the one-act plays were a tremendous success. The students presented "Sorry, Wrong Number," a drama, and "Quiet Please," a hilarious comedy with a backwoods overtone. Experienced actors such as Margo Warne, John Isaacs and Janet Hoffman, and new faces on the stage, for instance Don Hale, Dave Clark and Al Little, combined for outstanding results. Two of the largest audiences ever to pack the Little Theater made the last weekend in March another chapter in the history of Lowell High school's dramatic success.

The famous, popular, and it should be mentioned, Published, writing team of James Eminhizer and Michael Hynes once again came through with a sparkling and hilarious play for the teachers, entitled "Fatman." The production involved ridiculous costumes, inane dialogue, absurd choreography and all the other things teachers do every day. Mr. Eminhizer jiggled fantastically in the lead role and battled the Fiendish Five bravely with the help of his typically dull sidekick Sparrow who in real life is Mr. Hynes. It is certain that all who witnessed the performance of Fatman will not forget it until Eminhizer and Hynes again take the quill in hand and come up with another gem to tickle our funny bones.

Sadie Hawkins Runs Wild in Lowell

Turnabout is fair play? That's what the girls figure when the Sadie Hawkins dance approaches. Sponsored by the junior class, the Sadie Hawkins Dance is as good as a trip to Dog patch, complete with Daisy Mae and Lil Abner. The gym turns into a barn and ragged cut-offs, straw hats, and bare feet are all part of the scene. This is one event where the girls get their chance to ask the boys out and the results are always interesting. Euphoria provided the music for the evening. The Lowell students, as usual, seemed most at home in their native costume; blue jeans.

Too many little injuries at the wrong time proved to be the major obstacle in the Red Devils success. An excellent start in conference play gave the team high hopes for continued progress, but Lake Central turned the Devils dreams of sectional victory sour. Coach Armand Reyes, in his last year in Lowell, was leader of the team aided by first year coach Gene Genth. Seniors on the squad were Dan Butor, Larry Workman, Terry Brownell, Mark Allie and Steve Sark. Butor and Brownell were also the team's most valuable player and leading pitcher, respectively. The leading hitter for the squad was Sophomore Joel Ziegler who batted a lofty .355 and was also named to the first-string all conference team. Steve Stark also received an honorable mention on the all-conference team.

Track— Most Successful Season in Years

Coach Wornhoff led the track team to its most successful season in five years. The Red Devil runners brought home two trophies in relay meets. The win at South Newton was the first for Lowell in nine years of competition there. Fourteen individuals qualified to run in the sectional meet. Sectional competition saw the team finish ninth out of eighteen. Two Devils advanced to the regional meet. Dan Rust was third in the 180-yard low hurdles and Greg Holley was third in the discus throw. All but three members of the team this year were underclassman and this season may have started a winning tradition in track that will continue for years to come.

Tracksters Sprint to Winning Season

The women of Lowell High School have again proved their athletic excellence, this time by means of girls' track team. The girls broke even in triangular meets, losing to Lake Central and Kankakee in the first and whipping Valparaiso and East Gray in the second. They did even better in dual meets finishing 4-2, losing only to Chesterton and Hammond Gavit. The girls, under the direction of Miss Sue Graham, finished the season strongly by beating Kankakee, River Forest and Wheeler. This last win was their biggest of the year as they won by an amazing forty-one points over Wheeler. With only two Tracksters graduating, Lowell's female track team appears headed for an even better year in 1975. Gail Huke and Amy Ruley were the only seniors on this year's squad. Both turned in fine careers for LHS and Amy was also named the Most Valuable Female Athlete.

Mothers' Tea Goes To Paris

A beautiful evening, an admirable display of spring fashions, and a Paris café as a setting all contributed to a delightful Mothers' Tea. Traditionally held each May, the Tea was, as always, a success. The Home Ec Club sponsored the event, and everyone did a fine job under the able direction of Mrs. Hardesty and Mrs. Bailey. Among the entertainers were Ruth Gordon, Wendy Potter, and a group from the Swing Choir, who all sang French songs to accent the Parisian atmosphere. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Sue Ann Ping as the 1974 May Queen. Tami Lane was Maid of Honor, and the other court members were Ruth Gordon, Karen Hall, Karen Kender, and Jane Coffman. Sue Ann was crowned by the 1973 May Queen, Wendy Potter.

Conrad and the Return of Rock 'n Roll

In keeping with the 1950's nostalgic kick, the choir presented Bye-Bye Birdie. The weeks of practice in preparation were definitely worthwhile because it was a smash success, much of the credit going to the directors, Mr. Wendell Frederick and JoAnn Jerzyk, the student director. Bye-Bye Birdie required many unique and unusual costumes, many of which were supplied by Dan Clark. The female lead of Rose Alvery was played by Helga Haskell who turned in her usual outstanding job. Don Stuart played the part of Conrad Birdie while Steve Sharkey was Albert Peterson. They both gave equally fine performances. If the Lowell community is lucky, the musicals in the future will be performed as well.

Prom Extravaganza

Lowell High School's 1974 Prom carried the theme "We May Never Pass This Way Again". The After Four Club at Great Oaks served as the ballroom for the dance and the sweet strains of Renaissance kept feet and romance going all evening long. Karen Hall and Terry Brownell were crowned Prom royalty, along with their court of Bob Bailey and Charlee Ruley, Steve Sark and Becky Hassin, and Pat Searle and Janet Hoffman. When the official Prom had ended, the couples moved to the American Legion Building for the Post-Prom Party. Entitled "Come to the Cabaret", it was a garter adorned and chicken-filled gala. Good old-fashioned rock-n-roll by White Elephant ended the years biggest event.

Handshakes for Having What It Takes

Twelve years of hard work culminated on June 2nd in the Lowell High School gym. On this date, the class of 1974 left the friendly confines of L.H.S. Two hundred and fourteen graduates received their diplomas on this day and of these, seven were sixth semester grads, a school high for early graduations. The graduates were serenaded, not only by the band which played the Kensington Overture and The Entertainer along with the old standards, Pomp and Circumstance and the Fanfare and Recessional, but also by speeches from Cheryl Clevinger, Ruth Gordon and Patrick Searle. The Lowellian would like to extend to the 1974 graduates of Lowell High School our congratulations, hope for success in the future and our thanks for four years of fun, friendship and adventure in L.H.S.

Graduates Advance on Life

1: Becky Hassin's smile tells the whole story of graduation. 2: Pat Searle gives his point of view on graduation. 3: Steve Boyer and Debbie Burright wait anxiously for that moment to move their tassels to the right and confirm their graduation. 4: Senior's last stand. 5: Randy Kuiper receives that all important diploma. 6: Senior success was the ideology of Ruth Gordons address. 7: Honor students, Bob Bailey and Lynette Dering, lead the graduation procession.

Graduation, 1974, is Filled with Advice, Best Wishes,
Farewells and Memories

1: Lowell alumnus Terry Padgett recalls his own commencement with '74 graduate Becky Ellis. 2: Graduation attire is modeled by Sue Ann Ping. 3: Fred Klahn takes a peek at that long-awaited diploma. 4: The Rev. Carlton D. Hansen gives the class of '74 some parting thoughts. 5: Following graduation, Bill Busovsky and Chris Huseman discuss the events of the day. 6: Enjoying their new graduate status are Rick Finney and Tim Tilton. 7: Class of '74, guests and families listen to a farewell message from Cheryl Clevinger.

An Event for All Seasons

Some things I know no season here, just about every kind of club, anyone could ask for, and with all their raffles, sales, campaigns, field trips & money making projects (what else happens to that cash?) anyway, we can't complain of a lack of something to do! Teachers & students are here for 9 months - at least in body. Sometimes it's fun to think back on the year's highlights...

1: 50's night provided some diversion during a long, long winter. 2: Everyone welcomes the sight of spring flowers pecking through last year's leaves. 3: Gymnastics helps keep Paula Searle busy. 4: Lou Spain gives wrestling fans what they came to see.

No Seasonal Limit

1: Jamie Mitchell dons her horns for the Homecoming parade. 2: Janet Hoffman beams as Benny Kyle whispers to her. 3: Belgian acrobats were the highlight of the convocation season. 4: Bill Busovsky prepares for a X-Country run. 5: The Devils prepare to open their sectional battle. 6: Don Stuart sets a new fashion trend during the musical. 7: Bill Bockstahler and Tom Beeching take a breather.

Cheerleaders Push Lowell Toward Victory

Cheerleaders do share of the spotlight with the athletes, but perhaps not enough. They practice constantly, travel with the team, sell fan bus tickets and still manage to be full of pep and spirit contests and sold suckers. They had several bake sales to support the Pep Club. The J.V. cheerleaders added some innovations with the co-operation of sophomores Kim Hales, Scot Wilbur, Herb Steuer, Steve Runfeldt, Ashton Roberts, Ron Wendel, and Terry Little. Throughout an unprecedented Sectional week, the cheerleaders led the entire student body in support of the team at the strenuous pace of two pep sessions on Tuesday and two more on Friday. The cheerleaders all deserve the appreciation of their fellow students for a job well done.

1: Janet and Kim look forward to the game. 2: Long hours of practice are evident in this pose. 3: Sectional excitement is mirrored by the face of Cheryl Berner. 4: She ain't heavy, she's our cheerleader. 5: Team, we say "good luck!" 6: A Devil victory brings a smile from Kathy. 7: Varsity cheerleaders, clockwise from top: K. Kender, K. Huseman, C. Berner, J. Hoffman, D. Symond. 8: Top form is displayed by the Varsity.

Final Year for Big Band Boss

The Lowell High School Red Devil Band turned in another very respectable season in 1973-74. Except for dropping from a first division ranking to a second at band contest, the year was one of success, highlighted by a fantastic half-time show during the final home football game. The season was tainted for the Devils, however, as they learned that this was Mr. Crane's last year as the director of the band. This was Mr. Crane's fourth year in Lowell and it was a time of great advancement for the band. During this time, he made a very respectable band out of a rag-tag bunch of players, many of whom could barely read music. In 1973, the band received its first "first division" ranking in N.I.S.B.O.V.A. Band Contest in several years and this year a fine marching band appeared in Lowell. Mr. Crane also increased the band enrollment from approximately thirty-five to an even one hundred players but most importantly he increased the band's self-respect from virtually zero to where the band members now know that "they can do it." All of this is now inherited by Mr. Larry Littlefield, a former Lowell graduate. Mr. Littlefield will undoubtedly build even more on the ground work laid by Mr. Crane and the band will continue to grow so that the people of Lowell will soon know that Crown Point and Lake Central aren't the only good bands in the area.

Birdie Peaks Choir Season

The 1973-74 choir season was marked by two main programs. First, the Swing Choir again provided entertainment for many gatherings in the Lowell area. The Swing choir is a branch of the choir but the Swing Choir members do not have to be enrolled in choir, till allowing a student with an overload of classes to enter the entertainment field. The most conspicuous production of the year was, of course, the musical, Bye Bye Birdie. The annual choir musical was a big success once more this year and perhaps introduced us to the next Elvis, Don Stuart as Conrad Birdie. The Lowellian staff would like to express their congratulations to the choir on their past achievements and continued good luck on their upcoming ones. We regret the loss of the choir group picture.

Lowellian; Hard Work to Produce Results

A diary effect and an individual touch were the tools through which the Lowellian staff captured the 1974 school year. An attempt was made to recreate the events and moods of the student body as they happened; hence the book is arranged in chronological order, following the seasons, as opposed to grouping all sports and activities into sections. The special effect picture featured on the endsheet pages depicts the average student of L.H.S. In each of the five openings, a small space is hand written to reveal the mood and emotions of the students and faculty at that time of year. The handwriting and the messages are designed so that they could be those of anyone, not just one particular viewpoint. The entire book is constructed to recreated and bring back to life those moments of defeat, conquest, disappointment, pride and accomplishment that we all shared. It is to this purpose that the Lowellian staff dedicates this book. Missed deadlines, lack of people and lack of experience plagued the yearbook staff and special thanks are due to Cathe, Wade, Dave, Don, Julie and company representative George Kingsley for helping to get the jobs done.

L.H.S. Welcomes Maggie

For the past several years, Lowell High School has had the honor of hosting an outstanding student from a foreign country. This year's foreign student was 18 year old Miss Margret Thropjorg Thorsteindotter Jonnson from Iceland. Her American family, the Elmer Kenders, helped her to adjust to our way of life and then saw little of her as she became involved in the Junior Miss Pageant, AFS, GAA, the Girls' Swim Team, and Powder Puff football. The Powder Puff game was an interesting experience since American football was new to Maggie. Coming to America has added to Maggie's list of travels. She has visited Luxemborg, Cyprus, England, Denmark, and Africa. We hope Maggie has enjoyed and will long remember her year with us and we wish her the best of luck as she returns home.

Maggie . . . (1) relaxes by watching her favorite TV show . . . (2) tests the Dairy Queen's best hot fudge sundae . . . (3) matches wits with members of the Kenders family . . . (4) discusses important affairs of the day with one of her new found friends . . . (5) finds herself in one of her rare moments up a tree in Lowell.

First Year for A.F.S. Yields Lowell Student Abroad

Sitting: L. Combs, M. Jonsson, K. Kender, C. Boyles, K. Carlson, R. Gordon. Standing: L. Boyles, P. Koons, L. Love, M. Davis, K. Boyles, T. Little, D. Clark, D. Stuart, J. Adam, D. Hale, S. Stuhlmacher, C. Hassin, B. Evans.

At the beginning of this year, the A.F.S. (American Field Service) Club began its existence in Lowell. Although Lowell has often had a foreign exchange student before, we have never had a Lowell chapter of the A.F.S. to help these students. The main goal of the club is to make the exchange student feel welcome in Lowell and also to raise money for the next year's student. Another benefit to having a chapter of the A.F.S. in Lowell is that a Lowell student is then eligible to be chosen to go to another country as an exchange student and that person this year is Miss Cathie Boyles. Cathie is also president of A.F.S. and, unlike most of this year's graduating seniors, will not merely go to work or college after graduation but will be spending a year in Europe living with a foreign family and attending a European high school. This is what the A.F.S. is all about, getting people from different cultures to live and work together for understanding.

The LHS newspaper, after another name change (this time "The Devil's Tongue"), struggled through 1973-74. The paper, when assignments were turned in and the printers worked on time, was showing great improvement towards becoming a very handsome, informative journal. More often than not, however, the paper did not come out. This was due to a variety of reasons from no news to print to a lack of financial support from the student body. The Devil's Tongue did have one very bright spot in Editor-in-Chief Paula Searle whose diligence and work were the only factors holding the paper together. Next year, however, with a new batch of reporters, the return of Mr. Skvara as sponsor, and a new outlook, The Devil's Tongue should really be "Fired-up" to be a helpful publication to Lowell High School.

Fruitful Year

The 1974 Office Education Association brought to Lowell High an honor unmatched in the history of the school. Sharon Pyke won 6th place honors nationally in typing competition and deserves many plaudits for her fine achievement. Sharon was not Lowell's only winner in OEA competition as the club had many members who performed well in District Regional contests. However, Sharon was Lowell's "superstar" with her impressive performance. Back at the Brain Factory, it was business as usual. Running the student book store, selling fruit at Christmas and concocting homemade sundaes at 50's night filled out a rewarding and eventful year.

Student Council Project Nears Realization

For years the Student Council has been trying to buy an activity board for the school. Such a board, located in front of the school, would be used to post up-coming activities. In the past, a lack of money hindered progress toward building the board. This year, however, the project took priority over all others, a positive action was taken to make the activity board a reality. To raise the needed money, the Council sponsored the Donkey Basketball game, in which members of the faculty, the Boys' and Girls' basketball teams, and the Jaycees competed while riding Donkeys. The game was a huge success, and because of this the Student Council's long-time plans may soon be realized.

¡Hola Amigo! Want to buy a fruitcake? Perhaps you remember hearing something to that effect around Thanksgiving-time last fall as members on the Spanish club sold Fruitcakes for the second straight year and again were successful in their project. The club also participated in Homecoming activities with their "Fire up Devils" float and in the 50's night when Pres. Charlee Ruley could be found making cotton candy for a profit. Work pays off though as spring found members busy with plans for a trip to the Candlelight Playhouse for dinner and the play Man of La Mancha.

Right off the bat, the Art Guild asserted itself as one of the school's most active clubs. With perhaps an extra added edge in the creativity department, the artists copped third place in the Homecoming float competition. When Christmas time rolled around, the Guild outdid itself in decorating the South Commons. The masterful touch was the extra-large, extra-decorated tree which livened the pre-holiday atmosphere. (Little lights were used in order to save energy) A few of the extra added touches were done by the Art Guild and art students also did work on post-prom decorations. During 50's night, members applied their talents to making and selling candles, proving that art is not always just for man's sake, sometimes it's for money.

Girls' sports have been on the rise lately and so has the G.A.A. Owning one of the largest memberships of any organization, the G.A.A. participated in the 50's night, held their annual slumber party in the gym and sold Christmas candles to make some extra cash. The girls also planned a big ski weekend but the weather didn't cooperate and the winter clothes had to be stashed away until next year, in which sponsor Miss Graham promises to get that snow skiing weekend in—or else!

ROTC means more than Reserve Officers Training Corps. It means Responsibility, Organization, Take charge, and Cameraderie. This was a big year for ROTC. It started out with problems when they didn't have the required 100 male students. There was a quick recruitment drive and they soon had the number needed. Many students don't realize that ROTC travels. Their first trip was to Lake Village Airport where they boarded a plane for a bird's eye view of Lowell. They then went to Chanute Airforce Base and saw what the real Air Force is like. Then our travelers journeyed to O'Hare Airport to round out their trip schedule. ROTC also has its share of social events with a pool party, a Halloween party and a Joint Military Ball with Griffith and Hobart. The main event of the year was the Dining-out and Awards night with a genuine Colonel speaking and presenting some of the Awards.

A hissing sound hits your ears as you watch the blurred projectile racing upward. The sound stops and the object begins to slow down and fall. There is a puff of smoke and a parachute pops out to land it softly on the ground. This is model rocketry, and the Rocket Club of Lowell High was organized to bring this hobby to more people, and to organize the activities and launchings to make them more enjoyable to those who are already rocket enthusiasts. Several club launchings are held each year, at which members launch rockets which they build themselves. Sometimes everything goes well and the rocket is recovered intact, but occasionally rockets are lost or damaged. Either way the experience proves to be educational and enjoyable for those involved.

1: The Rocket Club isn't all rockets, as all forms of aviation are studied.
2: Some members gather to make plans for the next club launch.

Questions which have been puzzling many people for some time concern those students of the annex, that little building in the north-east corner of the parking lot. Who are these people, what do they do all day and what is VICA? First of all, the correct name is the vocational Auto Club and as to what they do, they spend most of their time working on trucks, cars, busses, and you name it. But, in their spare time these guys managed to build a first place Homecoming float, hold their annual tool box raffle to make some money and then 8 Juniors left for Cannonsburg Mich. to do another first—try their hands at skiing!! Anyone interested in becoming one of these mechanical ski bums look out, you're in for a busy year!

Student Action for Education (formerly F.T.A.) has been extremely busy this year doing just about everything you can think of. They're the ones you see every morning in the Student Lounge selling donuts. The teacher's basketball game, the annual turkey raffle, an exchange with Westview high school, teacher for a day, the teacher's breakfast, and the "ELF" program are just a few of the things that they've done. The SAE ended the year with a progressive dinner and party. A scholarship was presented to Gwen Schuyler, the outstanding senior member. This year has been a good one for the SAE.

It was a year unlike other years for the Pep Club. Because of their effort and inspiration Lowell High was saturated with Devil Spirit. The major highlight was having two pep sessions on the day of sectionals. Spirit week was very competitive as teachers outdid students with 100% cooperation. The ever-present girls in the black vests brought this kind of pride and enthusiasm to LHS and have given Devil rooters a tough act to follow. But, doubtlessly, there are sure to be other fired-up and frantic girls to make this kind of attitude last for a long time.

1: Debbie Symons proves that dreams can come true. 2: Exuberant Devil fans prepare to cheer Lowell on to greater heights in basketball.

Swing choir puts it together

On Floor: D. Clark, K. Carlson, Row 1: M. Schmal, T. Stephan, C. Turner, S. Wilbur, J. Martin, D. Hale, J. Jerzyk, Row 2: C. Anglin, G. Schoon, D. Clark, J. Rust, R. Wright, D. Stuart, B. Bailey, K. Pitke, Row 3: K. Hoover, J. Rust, S. Sharkey, J. Searle, S. Prihlyl, H. Haskell, L. Pearsall. Pianists: K. Peters, L. Dering.

Battling a chronic lack of male voices and a minimum of new material, the L.H.S. Swing Choir once again was able to "build a daydream". They were, as usual, very active in the community, providing a great deal of public relations for the school and trying to show Lowell what fun and entertainment a strong music department in the high school can be. Some of the Swing Choir's bigger engagements were at San Remo's restaurant in April, the style show given by the Girl's Softball League and the fifties Night sponsored by the choir. The members of the Swing Choir are learning to be different. With several performances per year and long practices at night every week of the year, they definitely are learning how to "put it together".

1: Lynette Dering and Karen Carlson talk over last minute choreography changes. 2: Joni Searle and Don Hale show proper Swing Choir form during Christmas Concert.

Light and Sound Club Brightens Little Theatre

Sitting: S. Sharkey, R. Hoyle, C. Hoshaw, C. Mulford, D. Eidam, J. Jerzyk, T. Meyers, Standing: Mr. Eminhizer, M. Warne, M. Schnal, G. Hagenwald, P. Gunning, J. Lessard, D. Clark, K. Tilton, C. Buche, J. Pearsall, E. Sealy, T. Meyers, P. Searle.

This theatrical season marked the second year of the Light and Sound Club. This club's only purpose for existence is to produce the lighting and sound effects for the varied functions that take place in the Little Theatre, primarily the Thespians plays and the Choir musicals. This is one club that would be very changed without them.

1: Mr. Eminhizer gets caught napping. 2: Who is that lovely lady those Foster Grants?

The Roar of the Greasepaint The Smell of the Crowd

Row 1: D. Eidam, P. Cunning, T. Meyers, Row 2: J. Jerzyk, J. Rust, H. Haskell, D. Clark, K. Carlson, Row 3: M. Warne, M. Schmal, K. Hoover, D. Gard, C. Sullivan, Row 4: S. Sharkey, G. Schoon, C. Clevinger, A. Zakula, J. Herz, Mr. Eminhizer.

The customary Thespian-type activities were performed this year in a not-so-customary way. Pillow Talk drew large crowds to share in its fun and frivolity. The three one-act plays were next on the agenda for the actors and actresses and a splendid performance was delivered in Sorry, Wrong Number, and Quiet Please. Fatman, the teacher's play, was a real crowd pleaser and more is expected next year from our deified educators. For Thespian Induction, The Bald Soprano was performed and it was a unique experience. Finally, on the seniors last day, the Thespians hit the road to give the children's play at the elementary schools. The Timid Dragon was the name and the kids, as usual, loved it.

1: That's two hamburgers, hold the mayo, and 1 elephant milk shake. 2: Fearless Fatman points out the correct procedure, probably for the last time.

Ecology Club—Concern for the Total Environment

Row 1: C. Gayfield, T. Talarek, M. Schucknecht, V. Berg, A. Berg, K. Kasparian, L. Harmon, P. Horneij. Row 2: B. Scheckel, D. Curtis, M. Searle, L. Marvel, K. Cunningham, M. Runback, L. Beach. Row 3: A. Sjoerdsma, S. Clark, M. Nichols, R. Hoover, M. Ramon, B. Gerner, D. Curtis, P. Ramon.

A Walk-a-thon from the high school to route 41 (picking up garbage all the way) and a Homecoming float were just a part of the activities of the Ecology club during its first year at Lowell High. A new club, comprised mainly of underclassmen, the Ecologists put thoughts of summer days into students when they sold bike flags in the North Commons and planned their spring bike-a-thon. A great success, the Ecology club should continue to be an active, helpful organization to both school and community.

1: Enjoying the outdoors—something the Ecology club wishes to preserve. 2: Annette Berg, Mara Ramon, and Terri Talarek pitch in to clean up America.

1: Mr. Horan checks the crops. 2: Mike Wein busies himself in the greenhouse.

F. F. A. Cultivates Farming Techniques

Sitting: Mr. Horan, D. Midkiff, J. Zukley, L. Krebs, M. Wietbrock. Standing: A. Hehr, D. Meyers, P. Stark, M. Wunderink, H. Brown, J. Hayden, D. Wleklenski, M. Little, B. Hesh, D. Kroll, D. Wietbrock, A. Little, T. Curtis, G. Smeltzer.

Sitting: L. Dering, R. Uhter, C. Ruley, J. Lindahl, K. Sharkey, K. Kender, J. Coffman, J. Jerzyk. Standing: S. Monix, K. Kender, B. Hassin, C. Boyles, K. Hall, T. Little, D. Eidam, D. Rust, M. Warne, J. Zukley, K. Carlson, T. Brownell, J. Hoffman, T. Meyers, D. Burrig, J. Isaacs, D. Henwald.

Cadet Teachers: Students Learn by Teaching

1: Patti Sharkey takes notes as Karen Hall tells of her day's teaching adventures. 2: Cadet teachers' sponsor Elaine Bever.

Who are these strange people?
The L.H.S. faculty, of course!

3: Sue Allegre and a friend take a slide from Biology. 4: Funny hats and shirts became a part of Lee Shaler's and Mike Hynes' wardrobe.

5: Jim Hurst and Lynda Geller are dressed "fit to kill." 6: L.H.S.'s faculty makes spirit explode. 7: Mike Skvara "cranks the Devil's tail." 8: Teachers show their true personalities after emerging from the lounge. 9: David Hunt forces his seniors to yell.

1: Mr. Tom Grabill, Tri-Creek Business Manager, and Mr. Wilford Ogle, Superintendent, go over some of the day's business. 2: Writing tardy slips is only one of Luan Perzo's many responsibilities. 3: A jovial grin from Dean Mike Sullivan. 4: Paula Tilton manages the money. 5: Rookie administrator Joe Schuster seeks office aid from Mrs. Kasparian. 6: Important phone calls fill a large amount of Principal Gary Druckemiller's day. 7: Athletic Director Bill Weiand runs the sports show. 8: Mrs. Kasparian is always present whenever anyone needs help from the office.

Brass Provides Leadership

September, 1973, revealed some changes in the main office. Mr. Druckemiller moved up to the driver's seat of L.H.S. Mr. Joe Schuster came from Purdue to fill the office of the Assistant Principal. Continuing as the Dean of Students was Mr. Sullivan. Sometimes these types of jobs can be burdened with unforeseen problems—for instance, getting hundreds of students to school and home again when there is no gas for the buses on which our school depends. Sometimes the job of supervising the education of a thousand people can be difficult. "You can't please all of the people all of the time" must be familiar phrase. With all of this in mind, it's good to know there's a capable group in command.

1: Mrs. Stephan headed the Materials Production Center. 2: As usual, Mrs. Sark is swamped with work in the Guidance Office. 3: Guidance is not all hard work, as is shown by jolly Lee Perry. . . 4: but he still has to give advice during his work day. 5: Elaine Beever talks over a student's latest escapades. 6: Arline Vandermark jots down a few notes before meeting with yet another student. 7: Library records are checked by Mrs. Taylor. 8: Another student resigns himself to the fact that Mrs. Midkiff will be his hostess for a few mods a week.

Guidance and Library Help Students

Before a student gets his schedule each semester, a great deal of work must be done, and this work is done by Guidance. Course selection, conflicts and each student's individual interests and graduation requirements must be kept in mind. Our guidance personnel are also responsible for student records, vocational counseling, and they always have time to listen to a problem.

The staff of the Library and Materials Production Center are also an invaluable part of our school. In the Production Center, all types of audio-visual equipment are available to add an innovative touch to any subject. The Library furnishes the reading matter and reference materials to all students and faculty.

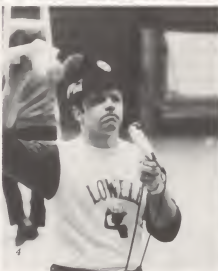

1: Steve Backe stretches a point. 2: Michael Hynes aids a confused Judy Rust in the study of a confusing subject. 3: General Science teacher Bill Weiland checks his schedule of events. 4: Gene Genth explains some of the intricacies of science to Randy Reese. 5: Gary Druckemiller gives Randy Osterloo five mods. 6: Semester grades are prepared by Larry Ouwenga with the help of Cheri Gayfield?: Ron Warnke shows the style and flair that make him the wonder-boy of the LHS faculty. 8: Kay Sampson types up some pressing business for the science department. 9: Sue Allegre tries to find what frightened Greg Sickler so Badly. 10: Omer Beeching lectures to his freshman Biology seminar. 11: John Sinner checks a student's geometry homework.

Change Comes to Math and Science Depts.

The 73-74 school year brought a milestone for the math and science departments. Due to the arrival of an additional teacher, the math department now has five members, enough to make it a separate department. This change is one of the many representing the overall growth of Lowell High School's faculty and curriculum. Along with traditional offerings such as Algebra and General Math, Consumer Math was again popular with the students. Those who wished to further their math backgrounds could enroll in Algebra II, Geometry, Computer Math, or Senior Math. Changes were apparent in the science department, too. Chemistry became an audio-tutorial course, and students could always be found staring raptly at tape recorders. Biology, that ever-popular favorite with the freshmen, flourished once more, frogs and all. Physics, Earth Science, Physiology, and Botany rounded out a varied and versatile selection of science courses.

1: Robert Miller shows Karen Sharkey how a business record should be kept. 2: Devonna Overmeyer enjoyed her first full year at Lowell in '74. 3: Aside from teaching gym classes, Steve Casick also tutored the Health and Drug Ed. classes. 4: During Sectional Week, Frank O'Shea added head cheerleader to his list of duties. 5: Nancy Reyes runs typing time trials. 6: Marva Barrett, head of the intensive lab. 7: Combination Phys. Ed. teacher, girls' swimming coach, Sue Graham. 8: Typing students Terry Little, Debbie Schrum, Margo Kornendy, and Jill Snyder pay close attention to Mrs. Reyes' instruction.

Business and Phys. Ed. Departments

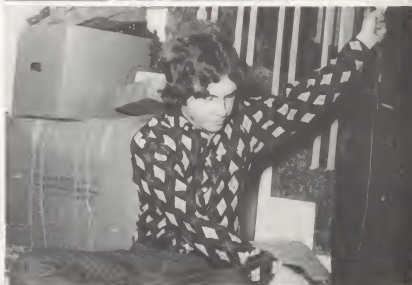

The L.H.S. business department would be an asset to any school. Because of the skills displayed by the business faculty, they are able to offer a large number of different courses. From typing and shorthand to data processing, detailed studies in retailing, salesmanship and business law, a student can find the course he wants. Graduates can go directly from the school to the office, thanks to the vocational program.

The regular P.E. classes of 1974 participated in many sports and various activities. Miss Graham and the freshman girls produced the second annual spring Phys. Ed. show, a delightful evening for everyone. Miniature golf in the Little Theatre was one of the countless diversions in I&D sports. Health and Drug Ed, the classroom side of physical education, proved informative to all students involved.

1: Sgt. Carl Gayfield assesses his cadets' work.
 2: Major Wendell Pribyl adjusts his grading scale.
 3: Lee Shaler discusses the psychology of Future Shock with his students.
 4: Sandy Daley and Randy Deweese chuckle over the latest edition of Newsweek.
 5: James Hurst counsels Tim Stephan on his American History assignment.
 6: Sponsoring AFS and helping with the Valentine Dance supplemented Mr. Shaler's busy schedule.
 7: Bill Wornhoff

prepares to explain a perplexing point in Black History. 8: Geography teacher John McHugh takes a break from the duties of his profession. 9: Mrs. Daley disciplines Pat Dougherty in the social studies resource center. 10: Along with teaching history, Mike Skvara sponsored the Devil's Tongue and helped Paula Searle and Rita Wright distribute the 1974 Senior Edition.

Social Studies Department Goes Mod

The social studies department joined the Chaos Club, getting itself involved with U.S. History minicourses. These had to be scheduled along with English, and for days, moans could still be heard in the sign-up area. This provided students with a look at a particular period in the history of our country, and the juniors, veterans at adjusting to change, adapted to the new system. Students turned their attention to geography, history, psychology, or sociology, and the rapid growth of LHS was visible once again as Mr. Shaler's "classroom" sprang up in the East Commons to help accommodate the increasing enrollment.

In addition to academic study of the Air Force, in Aerospace Education, students also participated in color guards, drill, and other practical introductions to the military service. At Lowell, AFJROTC provides discipline and organization, science credits, and look at the Air Force without obligation. There are also opportunities for scholarships, and many other things which benefit students in the program.

1: Bill Kalbac listens as a drawing student presents a new idea. 2: Dale Inig and Gary Ross set print in the Graphic Arts room. 3: Tom Burt takes inventory in the woods shop. 4: Bud Kussy reads off his checklist. 5: Metals instructor Jim Kane explains the latest techniques. 6: Robert Horan introduces his favorite plant. 7: That noise in the engine will soon be gone after Norbert Blanchard and Ray Leach are through with it. 8: Mr. Horan attempts to shift his thinking. 9: Robert Hopper contemplates his next day's class schedule.

Industrial Ed. and Agriculture Build Futures

Perhaps one of the most impressive programs at LHS is the Industrial Ed curriculum and faculty. Because of the outstanding facilities and large capable staff, students may choose from nearly eighty different IE courses. Metals, woods, electronics, drawing, graphic arts, and auto mechanics are all just part of the selection. In several areas, auto technology, building trades, and printing, for example, the training is vocational and students can be employed immediately upon graduation. An extremely large percentage of Lowell's students takes advantage of this program, and certainly any shop student would agree that this training is beneficial.

LHS also offers a number of courses in agriculture, a particularly useful and appropriate subject for many students in the Lowell area. Ag is taught singlehandedly by Mr. Horan, who familiarizes students with the facts they will need to be efficient farmers. His entire program is one of value to our many future farmers.

1: Diane Daley, Lynda Celler, and Jenny Haberlin habla Espanol. 2: Armand Reyes checks his baseball schedule. 3: Wilma Hardesty explains the uses of the big four food groups. 4: Vestal Bailey demonstrates how to thread a sewing machine to Ann Skorka. 5: Loranna Walton, French teacher, purchases her typical American lunch. 6: Robert Ray points out the construction of a prototype flower vase. 7: Wendell Fredrick, teacher of Latin and Choir. 8: James Crane points out a new musical symbol to Jeff Woolfolk.

Languages and Fine Arts Bring Culture to LHS

A number of LHS students each year elect to take French, Spanish, or Latin. The students have the opportunity to learn not only the language, but also the culture and history of the areas in which the language is spoken.

In addition to teaching Latin, Mr. Frederick directs the choir and related organizations. The musical Bye-Bye Birdie demonstrated what a good year the choir had had. Mr. Crane whipped the band into shape for an all-time high level of performance. The football shows, pep band and concert band all reflected growing skill and accomplishment. The art department, with Mr. Ray at the helm, helped brighten up the school on many occasions. The home ec classes are kept busy learning to cook, look after a home and make good-looking garments.

1: Sophomore English teacher, Ron Coghill. 2: Carol Mayse doubled as freshman English teacher and Lowellian advisor. 3: A typical pose is struck by David Hunt. 4: The advantages of College English are pointed out by Tom Wilson. 5: Irene Kostakis checks her classes progress in the art of spelling. 6: Gary Ross watches while Nancy Carter sorts through her desk. 7: Marie Woolfolk keeps her records straight. 8: Barbara Foss beams at her students. 9: Playwright James Eminhizer. 10: Stan Koby was one of many new English teachers in 1974.

English Moves Into Second Year of Mini's

Not wishing to be outdone by social studies, the English department got in on the confusion of scheduling with a dazzling array of minicourses. In an effort to appeal to the individual interests of the students, everything imaginable was offered, from Drag Strip to College English, from Gory Stories to Drama. This produced quite a variety of classes, and Mrs. Woolfolk had a busy time keeping all the books (not to mention the teachers and students) sorted out. With a year of minicourse experience already behind them, though, the English faculty kept things running. Just when it seemed that the students would never learn to distinguish a verb from a noun, somehow the idea finally got across, and everything made sense at last. All of a sudden it was June, and one year was gone. Hopefully, next year, some of what they learned will be recalled and come in handy.

1: Mrs. Battista and co-worker keep the kitchen spic-n-span. 2: Mr. Dobyns stacks lunch trays for another busy day. 3: Mrs. Lindemar served as head of the cafeteria. 4: Betty Williams discusses the latest leak in the roof.

5: Expert plasti-wear juggling is demonstrated by Mrs. Patz. 6: Mrs. Koons listens as Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Wilson tell of their lunch-line exploits. 7: The girls in the kitchen kept things hoppin' all year long.

Kitchen and Custodial Staffs

Lowell High School owes a great deal to its custodial and kitchen staffs. For instance, after most of us leave school for the day, they empty the garbage cans of our refuse and sweep the floor till it's clear of whatever we may have happened to drop during the day.

The kitchen staff prepares hundreds of meals each day for both students and teachers. While not busy making no-bake cookies and pizza, our cooks are planning meals and budgets, washing trays and serving. So remember, next year when school starts, take a janitor to lunch.

Summer is . . .

Tests, tests, tests, homework & then another test, how can anyone concentrate on school when it's so close to summer?
It's not that we can't, it's just that when daydreaming of those lazy days ahead sets in we get a little over-anxious.
But now, at last, we're free for three beautiful months!!

The Story of Our Year

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1998 (Department of Health 1999). The number of people employed in the health sector has increased by 1.2 million, from 2.2 million in 1980 to 3.4 million in 1998.

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the quality of care and services provided by the public sector. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of the Health Care Act 1999, which sets out a framework for the regulation of health care providers. The Act also introduces a new system of accreditation for health care providers, which will require them to demonstrate that they meet certain standards of quality and safety.

In addition, there is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of the Health Care Act 1999, which sets out a framework for the regulation of health care providers. The Act also introduces a new system of accreditation for health care providers, which will require them to demonstrate that they meet certain standards of quality and safety.
